

Band continues to improve

The parade at Washington was great! Band director Mrs. Coleen Schwartz said the marching band gets better after each parade.

She wants to give special recognition to drug majorette April Steinman for the leadership she had. Due to an emergency, Mrs. Schwartz was not able to be there and the other drum major and majorette were not able to direct the band with April.

"April was nervous, but everything went well," said Schwartz.

This past Saturday the band went to Mizzou where they were judged against 30 other bands by the MESHAA. The band was ready for the parade and practiced hard all last week.

The drum line added finishing touches on their already great cadence.

The flags had their routine perfect. The banner girls were provided with a new banner and the band was ready for anything.

Results will be in next week's paper along with the results from the all-district tryouts which were Tuesday in St. James.

Keep up the great work Band members!
